The party broke up at a late hour after having passed one of the most enjoyable evenings of the season, all agreeing that many thanks were due the hosts and hostesses for the agreeable and efficient manner in which the affair was conducted.

VOLUME XLII.

The New I. O. O. F. Block, Recently Damaged by Fire and the Crowd Attending Thomas Smiley's 'Gigantic Smoke and Water Sale'

The Curfew.

Recent happenings and conditions in the town makes it seem as if citizens who have the interest of the town and the future welfare of our young people at heart, as if something should be done to remedy the evil. That the evil is more wide spread than most people know is a deplorable fact. While it seems a pity to curtail the liberty of well meaning minors, there seems no other way, and the following rules and regulations have been made as liberal as it seemed possible without opening the door too wide and thus annulling all the benefits of a curfew law. It is hoped that all parents and citizens who have the welfare of the town at heart will support these rules and regulations that will be offered for Article 40 in the town warrant.

Should any citizen have any suggestions of change for bettering these rules, it is suggested that they be headed to the school board before the meeting. All minors shall be subject to the curfew law and shall not be on the streets or in public places after eight o'clock p. m. unless accompanied by a parent or guardian, except as hereinafter provided.

Minors having employment keeping them out after the prescribed hour may be granted a permit at the request of parent or guardian, such a request being a part of and embodied in the permit. A minor having no parent or guardian may petition the chairman of the board of selectmen to act as such guardian.

Minors may attend social and religious functions unattended, which do not close until after the prescribed hour, but must return home by the most direct route and only in the company of their own sex or members of their own family or parties of neighbors composed of both sexes.

Minors may be sent on legitimate errands which will require their remaining out past the prescribed hour, but must be provided with a written statement from parent or guardian that they are out on such an errand. No one of the above rules shall be construed as a license to minors to loiter on the street or visit places other than the places permitted.

In all cases where minors are on the street after the hour of curfew they must be provided with permit or written statement from parent or guardian, and it shall be the duty of the proper officer to call for such paper. Any forgery of such permits shall be punished by the law as made and provided.

Permits shall be issued by the town clerk upon the request of the proper parties and shall read as follows:—Permit to Minors, Norway, Me., date, I hereby request that a permit be granted to a minor, aged — years, that — may attend to work which is necessary to minors to loiter on the street or visit places other than the places permitted. Signed parent, etc.

Permission is hereby granted — a minor that — may be on the street when the work, in which — is engaged requires regardless of the hour of curfew. Presence on the street other than provided in curfew rules shall invalidate this permit. This permit shall be in force one year from date, unless invalidated. Signed — Town Clerk. It shall be the duty of the town clerk to keep a record of all permits granted.

Any constable or deputy sheriff may arrest a minor who is on the street contrary to the above rules, or any citizen can make complaint.

Any minor breaking the rules as above shall for the first offence be reported to the parent or guardian; for the second offence fined two dollars; for the third offence fined five dollars; and for the fourth offence shall be sent to such public institution as age or sex may call for. Statutory offences involving minors shall be punished as the law directs and the town binds itself to be the complainant through its selectmen. The selectmen are empowered to make an arrangement with the assessors with the Norway Village Corporation to install a curfew on the fire alarm system, such signal as they agree upon to be struck at five minutes past eight in the evening.

If at any time the selectmen deem it advisable they may on proper notice change the hour of curfew.

Surprise Party.
Last Thursday evening about forty of the shopmates and intimate friends of Rebecca Bennett met at her home on Tucker street. It was a complete surprise to her as they came with one accord but without any invitations. They were none the less welcome however.

They came to celebrate the nineteenth birthday of their hostess. She was presented with a beautiful gold locket and chain by Earl, the little three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Goldthwaite. "Pom" shopmates, with happy wishes of 20 days.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nat Bennett, and brother Willie gave her a handsome one-piece dress of velvet and lace. Among her gifts was a box containing a lovely linen handkerchief and a dollar coin. There were many dainty dishes and knickknacks so deep to a girl's heart, which reminded her of loving remembrance from dear friends.

The young folks spent the evening merrily in music a d games. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served and they departed wishing her many happy returns of the day.

Junior Exhibition.
The sixth annual Junior Exhibition of the Norway High school will be given in the Opera House, Friday evening, April 14th.

The students are working hard in preparation and their readings, solos, vocal and instrumental, etc., are well chosen and entertaining.

There will be two drills and music by the High school orchestra. Tickets will soon be on sale.

Ed. Rand is laid up with rheumatism and unable to work.

William Brown is spending the week with his sister at Mechanic Falls. Phillip Stone of Warren, Mass., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Fred Stone.

Mrs. B. N. Merrill spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Montelle Bradbury, at Auburn.

Norway Grange will serve dinner tomorrow meeting day. Ladies from D to J will furnish them.

The Plymouth Fathers will have a social and dance in G. A. R. hall next Wednesday evening.

Ladies' Night.

Oxford Lodge, No. 18, F. & A. M., invited the ladies to Ladies' night at "Masonic hall," Thursday evening. It was a most successful affair. The ladies who could, attended, and very happy they looked in their pretty gowns, and with their smiling animated faces.

A bountiful supper was served in the Odd Fellows hall below of salads, cold meats, baked beans, potatoes, pastry, cake and coffee, with all the fixings of pickles, cheese, etc. We heard one saucy young miss remark as the pie was passed, "apple pie without cheese is like a kiss without a squeeze." Whether her young man took to "kiss" or not we don't know. The hall was filled with tables and every seat was filled with people. The toastmaster, H. D. Smith, called on the "Smith family" for toasts. E. F. Smith responded with one of his off-hand talks, and everyone knows Gene Smith can get up a good speech on a short notice.

Then Clarence Smith was asked for a toast. That is nothing strange for he is one of the Lodge's brilliant and most interesting speakers. He spoke in poetry, and of history and if his talk did seem a little more elegant and finished than a speech given up without thought it was fully explained when he presented the toastmaster with an eleg ant jewel in the shape of the lodge. H. D. Smith has done much for the lodge as officer and historian and in many ways. Mr. Smith was surprised but he looked pleased and thanked everyone directly and indirectly concerned as best he could, and said his work in the lodge had been a joy and a work of love.

Mr. Smith did not call on any more Smiths, though the list of Smiths in the lodge was by no means exhausted. He adjourned the company to Masonic hall where a concert by the Temple Male Quartet of Lewiston, Verna Noyes, reader and pianist was enjoyed.

The selections were in keeping with the occasion, many in a happy or humorous vein, and they were given the "glad hand" again and again.

Then the guests gathered around the piano and sang songs after song. Mrs. Elsie Akers was accompanist.

The W. C. T. U. sale and entertainment was being postponed until a later date.

Rev. R. J. Bruce and family are visiting friends for a few days at Bolster's Mills.

The Norway Board of Trade will give a reception of a farewell nature to Chas. P. Barnes at Norway Grange hall, Friday evening, March 10, from 8 to 10 p. m. will furnish them.

Frank Packard is hauling wood off the Hayes place for Guy Curtis.

Eighteen people from this place attended the Circle at Norway Center, Wednesday.

Mrs. O. B. Upton and Mrs. A. L. Wyman attended the school exhibition at this place, Wednesday.

Roy Upton is hauling sawdust from Greenwood for bedding this coming summer. He has hauled several loads now.

Chas. Upton was taken sick at Bryant's Pond, Thursday, came home Saturday and returned Monday to his work. He had a touch of the grip.

Road Problem of Norway.

Don C. Seitz of New York, a former citizen and real estate owner, writes us as follows:
"No road can be good unless it has a firm foundation and is perfectly drained. Without these essentials all is in vain. If Norway buys a road roller, it will amuse itself by rolling around in the mud. The ordinary splitting drag, costing less than $25, is just as effective in smoothing and packing the highway."

The proposition the town ought to address itself to, is that providing for the proper surfacing of Main Street. If this can be done as indicated for $15,000 it will be a great bargain for the village and incidentally for the rest of the town. The interest at 6 per cent. would be only $750 a year, as South Paris floated its water bonds at 4 per cent., this is a light figure. Norway can not maintain and run a road roller for as little and will still be the victim of makeshift.

Pave the street permanently and have it done with."

Another from the same source:
"I think it would be a mistake for the town to buy a road roller, when it has no roads to roll. Your paving scheme is the only correct thing. Good roads cannot be had without drainage. That plan of yours makes a water tight surface, hence you will have no danger from frost. Put it through!"

That's easily said but $13,000.00 looks too expensive and would be promptly turned down.

The intelligence of Norway are striving to get good roads without cost, hence bumps, holes, and mud and people directed by hotel proprietors to travel other roads than those in this town. It's a fact, the colossal sum of $5,000.00 was raised last year for roads and bridges and $550 for state road. Think of it, $3,550 for roads—and about 80 miles of road is kept passable.

A road commissioner or commissioners will be elected next Monday. Already a canvass is being made for three commissioners who will divide the road money into three parts and spend it in their allotted territory whether needed or not.

Three years ago one commissioner was elected for three years but he served only a few months and resigned and the term was filled out by two others with more or less indifference results.

The one man road commissioner to our mind is right. The difficulty is in finding the proper person to fill the position. It must be there is someone in this town capable of doing this work and expending this money judiciously and where it is most needed. To put three men in this office is a mistake. One man is enough if you will select the right man. Allow us to suggest John A. Roberts of Norway Lake as a fit person for the position. His time is not occupied with other business and he is devoted to it intelligently to road making and repairing. We cannot think of a better man and we understand he would accept the position and do the best he could if it was the wish of the town for him to do it.

George Emerson has been sick with the grip.

The Knights of the Golden Eagle have bought an indoor rifle outfit.

The Republican caucus will be held at the Opera House, Saturday at 2 p. m.

E. P. Barnes will move his family to Boston about the 20th of this month.

Sarah Booker goes to New York, Saturday. She is to work this season at millinery at Taunton, Mass.

"Ought not to pass" was the report of the committee on the act creating a recorder for the Norway Municipal Court at Augusta last Tuesday.

The Universalist Ladies' Circle will serve a supper at Concert Hall, Tuesday, March 14. After supper the ladies will present a farce, "How the Story Grew."

Mrs. F. E. Chase of Haverhill, Mass., writes as follows:—"March 1st, 1911, I will celebrate my 81st birthday by renewing my subscription to the ADVERTISER. It comes to me like a personal letter every week." Mrs. Chase at one time was a milliner in this village.

Fore Street.
Mrs. Alice Ferris is at work at Ira Hiram's.

Joe Thompson is at work for Bradbury Barnett at Paris, in the carpenter shop.

Chas. Stanton entertained his cousin, Woodbury Stanton of New Hampshire, the last of the week.

George Cummings, who was so severely hurt last Tuesday, is gaining as fast as can be, considering his injuries. Everybody invited.

A very appreciative audience gathered at the Baptist church Tuesday evening to hear the "Travel Talk" given by Mrs. H. A. Clifford of Winthrop. Mrs. Clifford is a very interesting and pleasing speaker and held the closest attention of her hearers for some over an hour. She gave a most graphic description of the places visited and the impressions she received at Oberammergau was much enjoyed by all. Mrs. Clifford has many friends at South Paris who are always delighted to see and hear her speak.

Train No. 4 due at 5:30 Wednesday morning passed through here with the whole top and sides of her cab missing. The cab was hit by the water pipe at North Stafford, N. H. The engineer, Grant McKee, was slightly injured, also the fireman's shoulder was hurt. It was only a miracle that more serious injuries were not sustained. The accident necessitated the running of over a hundred miles on an extremely cold morning without protection to either fireman or engineer. The latter was occasionally relieved by an engineer who happened to be on the train.

WEST PARIS.
Mrs. Daniel Churchill has been quite sick.

Lewis M. Mann and his son, Edwin J. Mann, were called to Somerville last week on account of the death of Mr. Mann's mother, Mrs. Caroline Mann. She has many friends here who will remember her when she lived here several years, as a woman devoted to her family and who had great strength of character and energy. For the last six or eight years she has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Ella Reed, where she passed away. Mrs. Mann was 82 years of age. She was taken sick with the grip followed by heart failure, and died Monday morning, Feb. 20. Besides the son and daughter above mentioned she had another daughter, Mrs. Melissa Beal of Cambridge, Mass. The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon, and on Thursday the remains were taken to Troy, N. H., for interment.

Nearly everybody has had or is having the prevailing epidemic of grip cold, but in spite of it all a good time was enjoyed at the billed corn supper and Poverty party held at the Good Will hall. After supper a line of March was drawn up and the poverty stricken company was culled.

Mrs. Jennie Bates received the prize of a bonbon dish for being the worst female specimen, and C. Everett Chase received a nice large loaf of cake for being the most poverty stricken man. Of the children and young people, Roy Deham received a prize of a handkerchief and Reynold Chase a small post card album. After this there was a good mixed program consisting of songs and instrumental music by Alice Barden, a duet by Mrs. Bates and Alice Smith, a character song by Everett Chase illustrated by two small children, Reynold Chase and Dorothy Wardwell in a boat on the stage, a reading by Elinor Tuell, and three tableaux.

The temperance meeting under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. held last Sunday evening at the Baptist Church, was interesting and quite well attended. The subject was on retribution question, combined with the Frances E. Willard Memorial. The meeting was in charge of Mrs. Anna W. White, Vice Pres. of the W. C. T. U., in place of president, Ella M. Bates who has not yet returned from her trip to Bermuda. Following is the program which was opened with a praise service.

ONLY ONE "BEST"

Norway People Give Credit Where Credit is Due.

People of Norway who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs, and the only one that is backed by cures in Norway. Here's Norway testimony:

Otto Schauer, Main St., Norway, says:

"I have no hesitation in allowing my name to be used as an endorser of Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured me of a severe attack of kidney trouble several years ago and I have taken them on several occasions since then, when I have felt that my kidneys needed a tonic. This remedy has always given me prompt relief and rid my system of uric poison. Other members of my family have also used Doan's Kidney Pills with excellent results. I hope every person in Norway, suffering from kidney trouble, will procure this remedy at Stone's Drug Store and give it a trial."

SAVING PLANT LABELS.

Directions For Using Small Glass Bot-

les For This Purpose.

In endeavoring to secure a permanent label which would be at the same time cheap and easily prepared the following plan was hit upon, says a correspondent of House and Garden: First secure a sufficient number of small bottles with corks. The small tubes that prepared photographic developers come in will do, or the one or two dram homeopathic vials may be secured at your druggist's. Wire and some small stakes with one end trimmed down to fit the necks of the bottles complete the equipment. Copper binding wire is best, as it is very pliable and does not corrode when exposed to the weather.

For the seed bed clip from the end of the seed package the strip bearing the name of the variety planted. Slip this into the bottle, cork tightly and wire to a stake at the end of the row, or if desired the bottle may be slipped over the end of the stake, as shown in the accompanying photograph.

For trees, shrubs, etc., the bottle inclosing a label written with indelible ink may be wired to a branch, twisting the wire tightly around the neck of the bottle and leaving a long loop for the branch. Labels attached in this way may be left in place for years with no danger of injury to the branch to which it is attached.

USEFUL CONTRIVANCE.

Easily Constructed Space Saving Feed

Box For the Horses.

As the space on the first floor of the horse barn is often limited, any device that will enlarge it without expense is worth having. A farmer in Woodbury, Conn., has put in a handy, inexpensive fixture that is useful the year through. It is described thus in the Orange Judd Farmer.

He built his big out bin in the loft, fitted it carefully to keep out mice and connected a galvanized iron leader pipe to the bottom of it, bringing this down to a place near the stable door, where a box was nailed up with a cover. This cover can be opened, but will not stay open. The oats flow down into the box and stop because the bottom of the chute is covered. It is easy for the busy teamster to dip out what he desires to feed. This chute will conduct oats, wheat, barley or any whole grain, but clogs with ground feed.

To put up the leader is a quick and easy job, for a three inch leader comes in two foot lengths that are just right, and the elbows are made with tight but movable joints that may be turned in any direction, permitting the worker to follow around a post if necessary. As the joints fit tightly into one another, no soldering is needed.

One Shrewd Farmer's Work.

It is a common rule pretty generally observed that the farmers in this country lose more money than their taxes each year by not cutting the alfalfa along their ditch banks, says the Denver Field and Farm. We know a man who last fall secured permission to cut the alfalfa on the ditch banks of a neighboring ranch. He cut it with a scythe and put in three days and a half cutting and stacking it. He then had the little stack thrashed and sold the seed for $108. This is pretty good for the time put on the job.

Keep Your Tools Sharp.

One of the hardest things for the average farmer to do is to keep sharp tools about the premises, such as spades, hoes, saws and chisels. I have found, since putting a workbench in the corner of a building and equipping it with a vise that it is much easier to sharpen everything that can be sharpened with a file. A little workshop or a work corner in every building should be a part of every farm—Iowa Homestead.

The atmosphere is so clear in Zululand that objects can be seen by starlight at a distance of seven miles.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because of its deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, bronchitis or sediment in the urine, head ache, back ache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and better health in that organ is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. Swamp-Root corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. A trial will convince anyone.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something else called Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

PLACING OF TREES.

How to Plant Them on Streets, Lawns and About Houses.

Valuable suggestions on how to plant and care for trees to an advantage are contained in the following instructions prepared by the national council of horticulture:

Street trees should never be planted to be ultimately less than forty feet apart. Most of the better shade trees are slow of growth. It is advisable to plant quicker growing trees between them for immediate effect, to be cut out later, when they begin to crowd and injure each other.

Often when this time comes the quick growing tree is so much larger and finer looking that the owner's heart fails him, and he compromises by hacking the branches off all the row, ruining them all and affording only temporary relief. In a few years the quicker growing varieties begin to die, and soon a straggly row of melancholy cripples exist where might have been noble specimens, good for generations to come.

Trees should never be planted so as to shade too densely building walls, humans or animals abode. The sun must reach every part of a dwelling at least part of the day or the doctor will be a frequent visitor.

Trees must not be planted in the center of a lawn. At the side of the rear is the place for them. A spreading apple tree or two in the back yard are good for shade and for fruit if they are sprayed to kill insects and fungous diseases.

If the house is too densely shaded use the ax ruthlessly and open up a place to admit air and light. If two trees crowd each other select the best, or the best located, and cut down the other unless it is small enough to move. Don't trim. Cut down. One perfect tree is of more value than a yard full of crippled or stunted specimens.

Very Fine Handiwork.

Dr. Heylin, in his "Life of King Charles" records that during the reign of Queen Elizabeth "there was one who wrote the Ten Commandments, the Creed, the Paternoster, the queen's name and the prayer of our Lord with in the compass of a penny and gave her majesty a pair of spectacles of such an artificial making that by the help thereof she did plainly and distinctly discern every letter."

A somewhat similar feat was that by Peter Bales, an Englishman, who also exhibited before her majesty the entire Bible written in a book containing as many leaves as a full sized edition, but fitting into a walnut.

Defeat.

What is defeat? Nothing but education, nothing but the first step to something better.

House With a Double Piazza.

Design 927, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN.

Although this house is of the square type, it has a distinction quite its own, mainly on account of the large piazza, built on two sides of the house.
 There is a splendid interior arrangement, comprising eight rooms, a bath, a small den or sewing room, as well as a large pantry and entry. There is a side entrance into the dining room. The first story is finished in red oak or birch and the second story in pine to paint. There are birch floors throughout. Size twenty-six feet wide by thirty-four feet deep. Cost to build, exclusive of heating and plumbing, $4,000.

By special arrangement with me the editor of this paper will furnish one complete set of plans and specifications of design No. 927 for $25.
 GLENN L. SAXTON.

SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

Save Your Fruit From Damage.

THE widespread increase of the codling moth and other insects injur-ous to fruit trees causes an annual loss to growers of seven million dollars a year. The surest way for you to prevent your fruit from being wormy or badly damaged is to carry out a regular plan of spraying with some reliable material.

SHERWIN-WILLIAMS
 NEW PROCESS ARSENATE OF LEAD

is a general insecticide for all leaf-eating insects. It is superior to many other brands on the market, because it contains the arsenic in exactly the right proportion and the proper chemical combination, thus insuring a material that will not injure or scorch the foliage but is sure death to insects feeding on the leaves. It is extremely miscible in water and will combine readily with Lime-Sulfur and Bordeaux Mixture. Light in gravity, it remains well in suspension so that a uniformly poisonous spray can be thrown from the finest nozzle. For prices and further information on this product, come in and see us.

PROGRESSIVE FERTILIZERS

Swift's Animal Fertilizers bring you plant food in Nature's richest forms. They are made of Bone, Meat and Blood with high grade Potash added. Organic matter is an absolute necessity in restoring run down soils. It opens up the heavy clay to light and air, warms the soil, and furnishes available plant food from the very start.
 Swift's Fertilizers do more than nourish crops, they build up the soil for future years.

N. CHICHESTER, DECEMBER, 1910.
 "I have tried the various kinds sold in N. H., and have found that there is no fertilizer equal to Swift's Animal Fertilizers. We are using altogether the Superior Brand for corn and potatoes. This season, which has been very unfavorable for both corn and potatoes, we had corn that measured fifteen inches in length, on ground that was planted to potatoes last year. Not a speck of manure was used and only 450 lbs. of Superior Fertilizer per acre.
 "About potatoes, I never succeeded in raising over 200 bushels of potatoes to the acre until I commenced to use Swift's Superior Brand of Fertilizer.
 This year we raised 300 bushels of nice market potatoes to the acre, on 1200 lbs.
 of Superior Fertilizer. No manure of any kind being used, this fertilizer being sowed in the drills and potatoes planted with machine 15 inches apart in the drill. Owing to the very dry season, I consider this a nice crop, as some of my neighbors did not raise enough for their own use on other makes of fertilizers. I can safely say that I have never made so much of a crop of potatoes as this year. I am very much satisfied as Swift's. Very respectfully,
 W. G. BATHURSTER.

They are safe and efficient, may be used with or without manure, and are always uniform.

PICK YOUR COMPANY.

Be very circumspect in the choice of thy company. In the society of thine equals it is true thou shalt enjoy more pleasure, but in the society of thy superiors thou shalt find more profit. To be the best in the company is the way to grow worse.
 The best means to grow better is to be the worst there.—Quarles.

How Not to Grow Old.

The Spanish wit and philosopher Quevedo, who in his time gained a reputation for knowing everything, was asked if he knew of a means whereby a person could avoid growing old. "Most certainly," said he. "I know of certain rules which will sur-rely prevent your growing old."

"What are they?"

"Keep in the sun in summer and in the wet in winter. That is one rule.
 Never give yourself rest. That is another. Fret at everything that happens. That is another. And then if you take care always to eat meat cold and drink plenty of cold water when you are hot you may be perfectly sure that you will never grow old!"

Has Millions of Friends

How would you like to number your friends by the millions as Bocklen's Africa Salve does? Its astounding cures in the past forty years made them. It is the best salve in the world for sores, ulcers, eczema, burns, boils, scalds, cuts,
 corns, sore eyes, sprains, swellings, bruises, cold sores. Has no equal for piles. 25c At The Noyes Drug Store, 9-13

No More Dandruff.

Frank Kimball, Prop. of The Noyes Drug Store, What is Making Clean Scalps.

In order to rid your scalp of filthy dandruff you must kill the germ. There is a hair dressing called Parisian Sage which is now sold in every town in America, that is guaranteed by Frank Kimball, Proprietor of The Noyes Drug Store, to eradicate dandruff, stop falling hair, splitting hair and scalp itch in two weeks, or money back.
 If you have dandruff get a large 50 cent bottle today and rid yourself of it. Remember that if dandruff germs are not destroyed in time, the hair will surely fall out and baldness will follow.
 "I have used Parisian Sage and like it very much as a dandruff cure, and scalp cleaner. My hair is very much better than it was before."—Mrs. E. A. Bean,
 Concord, N. H., June 6, 1910. 9411

SOUTH WATERFORD.
Mrs. Ida Riggs, who has been ill, has recovered.

Elsina York is at North Bridgton attending Mrs. Cobb as a nurse.

Charles Packard has been confined to his bed last week but is reported much better.

Horace Smith and wife have been sick and confined to the house. They are both recovering. W. Watson has been housed several days with a severe cold.

NORWAY CENTER.
Robert Murphy, who has been working for W. C. Hobbs, has returned to his home at Allendale.

There was a large attendance at the Ladies' circle, held Feb. 22, and a good time was enjoyed.

The following officers were elected:
M. S. Cora Richardson, President.
Mrs. Geo. Hobbs, Vice President.
Mrs. Cora Richardson, Sec. and Treas.

State Lines.

Illinois is the largest corn growing state in the Union.

The state of Massachusetts at one time previous to the Revolution claimed the Pacific ocean as its western boundary.

If Texas were as thickly settled as Rhode Island it would have 134,000,000 inhabitants, almost one-tenth of the entire population of the globe. Every man, woman and child could have more than an acre of land at that.

Automobiles.

New York city has more automobiles run at the public expense than London, Berlin and Paris combined.

An automobile testing plant has been installed by the University of Kentucky for use in research work on the subject of power plant efficiency.

The Moscow postoffice has made a contract with an automobile company for carrying all mails between the general and branch offices and the railroad stations.

Recent Inventions.

To make it easier to pick up a needle an inventor has placed a small horseshoe magnet on the side of a thimble.

In a can opener patented by a Washington man the downward movement of a lever cuts out the top of a can and the upward movement removes it.

To save the trouble of using metal fasteners to hold several papers a hand punch has been invented which makes tongue shaped cuts in several sheets at a time and folds the tongues together.

How to Clean Old Ivory.
Antique ivory requires a good deal of care before it can be made to regain its original luster and lose the dingy yellow tint which disfigures it. Prepared chalk, sal volatile and olive oil made into a paste should be rubbed on the ivory figure or carving with a piece of wash leather, a little more being then rubbed over it and left to dry on. When dry the powder will brush off easily.

How to Renovate Velvet.
The velvet should first of all be stretched, pile side upward, over the steam from a kettle of boiling water. As the steam begins to rise get some one to brush up the pile briskly with a stiff brush. Then spread out flat to dry and afterward brush lightly again. When the material has been worn a great deal and is very soiled sponge it lightly with benzine.

How to Save Plumber's Bill.
Do not send for a plumber when the water freezes. Just unscrew the faucet so as to turn it upside down, put in a tablespoonful of salt and then keep adding hot water until the salt is washed down the pipe. A little patience saves a plumber's bill.

How to Keep Roast Juicy.
Lower the temperature of an oven considerably after a roast has been in for twenty minutes and the juices will be retained.

The Rat's Tail.
The rat's tail is a wonderful piece of mechanism. It has more muscles than the human hand.

THE WAY TO PEACE

How One Family Contrives to Live in Harmony.

NO RATS, PUFFS OR HOBBLES

Women Have Got to Dress Themselves Like Mme. Recamier This Spring if They Would Be in Line With the Styles.

Dear Elsa—You know that I always talk or, rather, write things out to you. Now, I'm going to unload the idea I've percolated in my mind right now. A rather pessimistic friend of mine who has just left the house declared while visiting me that "nature never intended three adult daughters to share the same roof."

My contention was that in these days of late marriages they are frequently obliged to. I did admit,

As usual, we will go to the other extreme. The gentler sex must wear only their own hair this spring and as little of that as possible. Women with extra heavy crops of hair may have to cut switches from their own crown to be in fashion.

I was supplied with the Van D's last Sunday evening and the tea cakes they served were the most delicious things I have eaten for some time. They gave me the recipe, by the way, a formula that has been in their family for generations. I will pass it on to you. Sift a quart of flour, half a cupful of sugar, half a teaspoonful of cream of tartar and one of soda or three of baking powder. After sifting rub in a heaping tablespoonful of butter. Add the yolks of two eggs and enough milk to make a stiff batter. Just before putting in the pans fold in the whites of two eggs beaten stiff. Bake in a sheet pan, spreading the mixture out to a thickness of one inch and a half. Bake in a hot oven. Serve hot, broken into large pieces. I do hope you will try this tea cake recipe and the success you have told me.

P. S.—How do you like the empire dress in the sketch? It is of navy blue, velvet trimmed with bands of heavy cream lace.

IN EMPIRE STYLE.

The principal beauty of the new papers lies in the lovely colors. Some of the prettiest are almost plain, but not quite so. The absolutely plain papers have not the depth of color and variety that we find in those with a slight figure of some kind, even if it is only a line. The hairline stripes are still with us, but they have improved these by breaking the stripes with tiny self-toned figures. There is one lovely gray paper, a hairline broken here and there with a little gray rose. A beautiful lavender paper also has a hairline background, but it is broken up into diamonds. The charm lies in the beautiful color.—Harper's Bazar.

To Clean Upholstering.
Housewives are well acquainted with the fact that upholstered furniture is a lurking place for germs and dirt. It is well to know that it may be kept clean without taking outdoors to beat or without raising a cloud of dust. Wring out of warm water a cloth which is not linty. Spread over chair or sofa and beat with a rattan beater, then turn the cloth and beat over the other side. Several cloths may be necessary, but all of the dust will finally cling to the surface. To remove dust from tufts use a small, stiff toothbrush moistened with hot water.

Spring Millinery.
So practical and becoming is the turban that women will not let it go; consequently we shall have it again next summer. Illustrated is a particularly good, becoming model. It is made of Panama straw and is faced with black velvet. Around the crown is draped a black and white checked sash which is tied in a pretty, becoming bow at the left side.

Waterproof Suit Cases.
"Straw matting suit cases and shopping bags," says the Woman's Home Companion, "can be very much improved in looks and usefulness by a coat of cheap wagon varnish, which makes them waterproof. A good wetting will generally spoil them, but the varnish causes them to shed water like a duck. This should be done once a year."

A Good Investment.
Beautiful home grounds are an investment, just as good fences, drainage, etc., are. They add to the value of the farm and to the happiness of the family.

No Rats, Puffs or Hobbles.

Now, as the advertising people put it, I reckon you'd like to have a little "style talk." Here goes. I will begin with the spring coiffure. Throw away your rats and puffs; you'll not need them in the new hairdressing. Look at pictures of Mme. Recamier and you will be enlightened as to how to do your hair. All the women here in New York who keep up with the styles are buying copies of the great picture of Mme. Recamier which hangs in the Louvre. As you will see by the presentment, the hair is combed smoothly over the head and brow and parted in the middle of the forehead. The hair is then done up at the back of the head in a coil or sort of Psyche knot in the Flemish fashion.

With the rats and puffs goes the bobble skirt, but it is not dealt with so violently as the hairdressing adjuncts. It is permitted to gasp awhile before dying. Women who like it may console themselves with a sort of empire gown having a short bodice and plain skirt, and the shade will be "vert empire," the green of Napoleon.

But, to come back to hair, a life of baldness was staring American women in the face, so hygienic people say. If the practice of false hair had continued, they assert, women would have found themselves without a root of hair with which to anchor a stitch.

As usual, we will go to the other extreme. The gentler sex must wear only their own hair this spring and as little of that as possible. Women with extra heavy crops of hair may have to cut switches from their own crown to be in fashion.

A FORECAST OF SUMMER MODES: GOWN WHICH WILL BE LIKED

THE air outside may be chill with snowflakes, but there is a breath of summer in the room as one gazes at this forecast of the summer styles. The gown shown is one of the newest and best of the lingerie gowns which will be worn from the time the air begins to warm up thoroughly until the chill autumn winds bring thoughts of tailor made and heavy fabrics. The material is cotton voile, a fine grade of cotton fabric which will be much used this summer. A smart feature is the tunic effect of heavy embroidery. Combined with the embroidery and the voile to form this frock is Mexican drawn work made in bands and lending a delightful air of "openness" to the costume. The frock is made "all in one," with the short kimono or peasant sleeve, which shows no sign of losing its popularity, and the waist is indicated by a wide satin ribbon girde drawn through the center girde and terminating at the back in a big bow.

FRANCIS WARD.

"Helen Pink" the New Color. "Helen pink" is the new color—or, rather, the new shade of pink—which is sweeping over the count. Fashionable milliners and dressmakers have already put on sale throughout the land hats and dresses in this new shade of pink, named after President Taft's only daughter. Competent judges declare that "Helen pink" is just as ravishing as "Alice blue," named after Alice Roosevelt, now Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, was a few years ago.

New Style Nursery. A new style of nursery in vogue in the homes of the rich consists of a roof incased in glass and heated by steam radiators. It is filled with growing plants, fountains, sand piles and everything to make it dear to the heart of a child. Some of these roofs even have space enough for games of croquet. The sun heats the glass so effectively that often all the windows have to be left open for ventilation, giving fresh air in abundance with a delightfully tropical warmth.

Defect in Our School System. "The defect in our public school system is that it indicates disrespect for the normal occupations of the home. Our girls are taught everything except the one supremely important thing—how to be good wives and mothers," says Dr. Jane E. Robbins, executive secretary of the Public Education association.

She Teaches Household Science. Miss Isabel Bevier is best known for her sane and vigorous leadership in a pioneer field. She is the head of the household science department of the University of Illinois.

TWO SMART AND TIMELY WAISTS

THE one piece suit has come and gone, probably for a long time, and the separate waist is again in possession of the kingdom which it earns by its usefulness and general becomingness. The advent of the peasant style added to the chorus of approval which greeted the return to universal favor of the separate waist, for it enables a woman who is handy with her needle to supply herself with these indispensable garments at comparatively small cost. Two of the spring styles in separate blouses are shown in the picture. The waist of cluny lace is a perfectly stunning affair, with its long shoulder effect running down into the short sleeve. The waist is very simple, but if carried out in the original material it is expensive. Cheaper lace may be substituted, of course, but the maker should not expect the exceedingly chic effect which follows the use of the real article. The other waist is charming in its simplicity, also. The material is gray chiffon over pink silk, the principal trimming being folds of pink chiffon forming the collar and cuffs. The plating of the front of the bodice and on the sleeve is one of the newer spring effects.

BRYANT POND. Frank Stevens is sick. Augustus Rowe is very feeble. Ben Billings lost a valuable horse last week. Roy Noyes, son of Charles Noyes, has the mumps. Arthur Davis, who had his arm broken, is doing well. Rev. D. L. Joslin of Norway will preach here next Sunday. Marjorie McAllister of Albany is working for Mrs. Flora Morgan.

Mrs. Isa Perkins of Fryeburg is with her daughter, Mrs. Lee Rowe. Mrs. Nellie Briggs of West Paris is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Ada B. Swan.

Mrs. George England and daughter are staying with her mother, Mrs. Luella Sessions.

Next Sunday there will be a missionary concert at the Baptist church at 7 o'clock.

Helen Doughty has been visiting at Mrs. Jerry Farrar's and at Mrs. Henry Berry's.

Last Tuesday Ned I. Swan and Archie D. Pelt visited Dixfield lodge F. & A. M. for inspection.

It is rumored that Mrs. Abbie Russell has bought the Harry Cole house and will move there.

Mrs. Arthur Bessey and daughter, Marion are guests of her father, Moses Dow of West-Summer.

Mrs. James Bowker went to Lewiston, Thursday, called there by the serious illness of Mrs. George Bowker.

Frank Cushman of Gorham, N. H. and daughter Helen were at home Sunday. Helen is teaching in East Milton.

Mrs. Ella Sweetser was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Albert Russ, a part of last week, returning home Saturday.

THAWING FROZEN PLANTS.

How to Avert Damage Caused by Cold Snap Reaching Greenhouse.

During the winter, the amateur in gardening has much to contend with, and not the least of these evils is frost, especially where an endeavor is made to keep the more or less tender plants through the cold, dull months in a poorly heated greenhouse or frame.

Fortunately science has come to our aid and taught us a few things concerning the effects of frost on tender plants, and with these principles fully grasped we are in a position to combat frost, according to a writer in the Farm Progress. Plants which are kept as dry as possible during a spell of frosty weather without being allowed to suffer from this cause will withstand successfully far more frost than the same kind of plants whose tissues are gorged with liquid, and science has also taught us that the greatest mischief is caused by rapid thawing.

To grasp the above facts it may be as well before proceeding further to just consider briefly what really happens when a plant gets frozen. It is now generally known that a plant, like the human body, is made up of tiny cells, each of which, of course, has its own walls.

Under ordinary conditions and when a plant has abundance of moisture at its disposal these cells are turgid and liquid. Now, when liquid becomes frozen it is one of the laws of nature that expansion takes place, and in the case of that in the plant cells no exception to this law is made. The expansion then results in a rupture of the plant cell walls, which under ordinary conditions of thawing cause the plant to collapse.

It has been proved that when a plant is thawed very slowly the plant cells are able to absorb the moisture which has been forced by expansion through the cell walls, and the rupture is to a great extent made good.

Assuming that the plants have not been watered more often than is absolutely necessary and that one morning we visit the greenhouse or frames to find that frost has reached them, we know that if they are to be saved thawing must be done very slowly.

First of all we must take care that the heating apparatus, if any is used, does not get into working order again, and if there is any likelihood of a burst of sunshine shade the structure with thick mats or anything else that can be quickly reached. Then get an abundant supply of ice cold water and syringe or otherwise drench the plants with this until frost is gradually removed from the tissues.

This will probably mean very cold hands and chattering teeth, but it is either this or losing the plants. For several days subsequently the plants should be kept as cool as possible without allowing frost to reach them again.—Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

HOW TO STRING BEADS.

By Tying Knot Between Each Bead Danger of Loss Is Minimized.

The owner of any beads valuable for their own worth or their associations might well take a lesson from the pearl stringers. Their cardinal principle is to tie a firm knot between each two pearls. Then if the string breaks no more than one pearl can be lost. This applies just as well, of course, to other beads.

Neither wire nor catgut is good for the stringing of any jewels where a stiff appearance is out of place. Instead, either surgeon's silk—which is woven like braid, instead of twisted, and comes in several numbered thicknesses—or finely and flexibly woven gold or platinum chains are used. Really the silk is the more desirable of the two.

In stringing any precious beads, and pearls especially, never use a needle. Simply wax the end of the silk and pass it through the hole. The knotting is also an important point. It must be large enough to hold the bead, but not large enough to show. Pearl stringers use an intricate knot of their own, and that is why it is, on the whole, better to have very expensive jewels strung by a professional. When there is a collarlet or something of the sort to be made, this is absolutely necessary.

She Knew Her Business. For many years in a certain family in Uniontown, Pa., there was an old colored cook who was thrifty and economical, but the old shanty to which she went home every night never had any repairs and was weather beaten and dilapidated. "Nancy," said the mother in the family, "you seem to be getting along well, but why do you not fix up the shanty, add a spare room, and so forth?" "Hub," said the old dorky, "an' I'd have a spar' nigga every night."—Ladies' Home Journal.

LARGE HOG HOUSE.

Provides For Maximum of Sunlight and Exclusion of Drafts.

The Illinois experiment station gives the following description of a large hog house, which is in successful operation.

Sanitation.—In order to be sanitary a hog house should admit the direct rays of the sun to the floor of all the pens and exclude cold drafts in winter, be dry, free from dust, well ventilated and exclude the hot sun during the summer.

Fig. 1 shows a hog house built with this purpose in view. The building as a whole is thirty feet wide, with an eight foot alley running lengthwise east and west with the windows on the south side. The important factor to consider in this connection is the height of the windows represented at B and D in connection with the width and manner of construction of the building. The window B is so placed that at noon of the shortest day of the year the ray of light which passes through the upper part will fall upon the floor on the south side pen on the opposite side from the window. This allows the total amount of light coming through the window at this season of the year and this time of the day to fall upon the floor within the pen. In the morning and in the afternoon, when the sun is not at its highest point, a part or all of this beam of light will pass beyond the pen. Consequently during the later winter months there will be a maximum amount of sunlight on the floor of the pen.

The lower part of the window D in the upper part of the building performs the same function for the pen on the north side of the alley as does the window B for the pen on the south side. By this arrangement of windows there is possible a maximum amount of sunlight on the floor of the pens in winter which will serve to warm the interior of the house and especially the beds during the latter months of winter, thus making it possible to have pigs farrowed very early in the season. Sunlight not only warms and dries the building, but destroys disease germs, thus making the building both warm and sanitary. Sanitation is further augmented by the upper part of the window D, which, when open, acts as a ventilator. It is supplied with weights so that it can be opened and closed at will by the attendant while standing on the floor of the alley.

To have this arrangement of windows in the latitude above cited, it is necessary to have the top of the window E, which throws light into the pen on the south side, five feet six inches from the floor. The upper window, which throws light into the pen on the north side, is longer, but a point in this window the same distance above the lower end as the height of the window D should be nine feet eight inches from the floor. This necessitates a flat roof for the part of the building south of the alley, which must necessarily be made of some material that will shed water at a slight pitch. The wall on the north side of the building is made as high as that on the south side, but the roof on the north side and alley is made steeper so as to have more air space and good ventilation. In Fig. 2 is submitted the ground plan of the hog house. It is 120 feet long by 30 feet wide and is provided with an alley which runs lengthwise through the middle of the building and is eight feet wide. This permits of driving through the building with a wagon, which allows the feed and bedding to be hauled in where it is needed and the manure to be loaded on the wagon directly from the pens and hauled to the feed.

The pens are ten feet wide and eleven feet deep. Each pen has a doorway leading to the outside which is opened by a door sliding upward. There is also a door opening to the alley on the inside.

From the financial standpoint the crown of England is worth about half a million dollars.

OTTUMWA WOMAN CURED

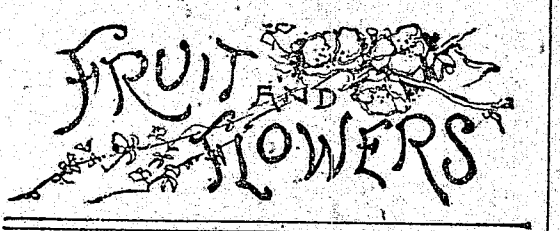

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ottumwa, Iowa.—"For years I was almost a constant sufferer from female trouble in all its dreadful forms: shooting pains all over my body, sick headache, spinal weakness, dizziness, depression, and everything that was horrid. I tried many doctors in different parts of the United States, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than all the doctors. I feel it my duty to tell you these facts. My heart is full of gratitude to you for my cure."—Mrs. HARRIET E. WAMPLER, 524 S. Ransom Street, Ottumwa, Iowa.

Consider This Advice.
No woman should submit to a surgical operation, which may mean death, until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous medicine, made only from roots and herbs, has for thirty years proved to be the most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women residing in almost every city and town in the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

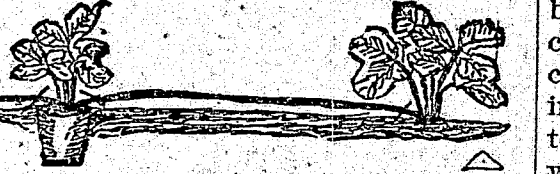

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, confidential, and always helpful.

STRAWBERRY PLANTS.

Potting Them For Planting Out In August and September.

The amateur is often anxious for a strawberry bed in bearing at once and cares very little about the expense. This demand from those who are in a hurry has led to the practice of rooting plants in autumn in small flowerpots. The method adopted is explained by an exchange, is as soon as the old plants throw out runners, in July or August, to fill two inch pots with rich soil or fine compost. The better the material the sooner the plants will fill the pots with roots. Sink the pot in the ground under the young plants and fix the plant in position by placing on the runner a small stone or covering it with dirt to prevent displacement by the wind. It will take about three weeks for the roots to fill the pot, during which time the plant should "stand put." Cut the runner and leave the pot undisturbed for a few days to allow the plant to become well established as an independent institution. If the weather is dry during this time the application of water will be required directly into the pot.

When the plants have become well rooted they will be in the best condition for planting out in their new quarters. Not one should fail to grow, while rows of plants dug from the bed will show many annoying blanks. If, however, plants are allowed to remain too long in the pots they become almost worthless owing to lack of room for their roots to develop and expand. They are cramped and dwarfed and seldom, if ever, recover.

The Great Vine of California.
Sixty-four years ago a Spanish woman named Joaquin Lugodi Ayala planted a small twig of the mission grape in Carpentaria valley, near Santa Barbara, Cal. She watched and tended it with jealous care through its early growth and in later years kept it neatly trimmed and trimmed. Some twenty years ago the vine was purchased with a plot of ground by Jacob Wilson, who has since donated it to the city of Carpentaria. It constantly pruned. At the ground the trunk measures nine feet nine inches in circumference. Five feet above the ground it has a girth of seven feet eleven inches. At a height of six feet the trunk branches into five divisions, which radiate in different directions. These five branches have a combined circumference of fourteen feet eleven inches.

The Original Wedding Cake.
Our wedding cake is the remains of a custom whereby a Roman bride held in her left hand three wheat ears, and many centuries later an English bride wore on her head a chaplet of wheat. The attendant girls threw corn, either in grains or in small bits of biscuit or cake, upon the heads of the newly married couple, and the guests picked up the pieces and ate them. Such was the beginning of the wedding cake, which did not come into general use until the eighteenth century and was then composed of solid blocks laid together and fed all over with sugar so that when the outer crust was broken over the bride's head the cakes inside fell on the floor and they were then distributed among the company.

CABBAGE DISEASES.

Susceptibility to Rot and Infection Due to Soil Conditions.

In a bulletin on "Cabbage Experiments and Culture" issued by the Maryland agricultural experiment station it is asserted that the susceptibility to rot and disease of cabbage growing on very rich, highly cultivated land seemed to be due more to something unsuitable in the soil rather than to the direct attacks of bacteria or fungi. During very rainy weather in the heat of summer young and apparently vigorous cabbage plants will wilt and die. If the weather is more eagerly dry and the soil loose and well cultivated, cabbage will grow vigorously and seemingly resist disease even if the soil is known to be infected with germs. It was noticed that a patch of cabbage planted on a piece of land that had been used to grow celery for several years grew very well until heavy rains began to fall in

PATCH OF CULTIVATED CABBAGE.

August. In the bright sunshine which followed the plants wilted and died.

The crop was a failure except a portion of the lower corner, which was on a poor clay knob, and there a few good heads matured.

Due consideration was given to the fact of poor drainage and also to excessive amounts of water about the roots, to which might be attributed much of the failure. Still it seemed a plausible conjecture that there might be extraordinary amounts of soluble salts in the soil and that they would have a poisonous effect on the roots.

A piece of rather stiff clay land, one-eighth of an acre in size, that had been manured and planted to truck crops for many years and upon which cabbage had rotted badly the preceding year was again treated with ten tons per acre of rotted manure. This was plowed down and the land was prepared for the crop.

Plots were marked off and treated as follows:

- Plot 1—Complete fertilizer, 1,000 pounds per acre.
- Plot 2—Check, no fertilizer.
- Plot 3—Lime, sixty bushels per acre.
- Plot 4—Sulphate of potash, 300 pounds per acre.
- Plot 5—Muriate of potash, 300 pounds per acre.

It had been noticed in some other work under similar conditions that muriate of potash seemed to have the effect of promoting the vigor of the plants. Fifteen varieties of cabbage were planted across the plots, nine varieties of French and six of American origin. The plants were set June 23. They started off nicely and grew well until the first week of August, at which time there were incessant rains, followed by bright sunshine.

All the plants on all the plots wilted down and only a few recovered. Most of those wilted died in a short time with black rot. A few lingered on, but did not make satisfactory heads.

HINTS FOR BEEKEEPERS.

If you expect to get a crop of honey take good care of your bees.

Don't imagine that you know it all and cannot learn anything by reading a bee journal.

In the production of extracted honey give seven frames in the eight frame super and nine frames in the ten frame.

Don't put on your supers before the bees are ready for them, as you gain nothing by doing so, but only render it harder for the bees to keep up the necessary heat.

The necessity of having a neat and attractive label with the name and address of the producer on every package of honey put upon the market is well understood by the enterprising beekeeper.

The long top bar is better for use in old homestead hives, as the staple shaped frames require accurate inside dimensions.

Fruit culture cannot be carried on successfully without bees to effect fertilization through carrying pollen from one blossom to another.

The disposition of an unprofitable colony to store honey may be materially increased by giving them several combs of hatching brood from an industrious hive.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—How the Little Pig Was Fooled

Drove Him Out of the Field

"PIGS are not very clever animals, are they, daddy?" asked Evelyn, who had seen a performing pig at a circus and thought it great fun to see the animal go through its tricks.

"No," said daddy. "As a rule they are not. But I once heard about a piggy who fooled a farmer and was later fooled himself by the farmer. I shall tell you about it this evening."

So that evening daddy began: "Once upon a time there was a farmer who had a large patch of potatoes. The potato plants were coming up finely, and when the farmer looked after the potatoes he saw that they were doing very well indeed. They were about the size of hen's eggs, and the farmer thought he would have a fine crop. But one morning the farmer noticed something wrong with his potato patch. Some of the vines were rooted up, and some of the potatoes were gone. Of course he wanted to learn who the thief was—he wasn't going to grow potatoes for any one who wanted to visit his fine patch and help himself, said the farmer—so he made up his mind to watch until the thief should come along and then surprise him.

"He hid himself among some bushes. But he saw nothing for a long time, and he was just about to give up, greatly puzzled, when he saw one of his own pigs, a fine young, half grown porker, come slowly up the road. 'That can't be the potato thief,' said the farmer. 'He can't get into the patch through the new fence. It must be some one else who is helping himself to my nice young potatoes.'

"But couldn't he, though! 'That was a pretty wise young pig, I tell you. He had found a way to get at the potatoes, and this was the way: One corner of the rail fence rested on a large hollow log. That hollow log was shaped like a stovepipe elbow. One of its ends was inside and one was outside the potato patch. The pig went straight to the log, crawled through and, coming out at the other end, found himself in the field. He was just starting in to root up the potatoes when the farmer called his dog and drove him out of the field.

"'I'll fix Mr. Pig,' said the farmer. Then he turned the hollow log around so that both its ends were outside the field. Then the farmer hid again and waited. Along came Mr. Pig again. He crawled through the hollow log as before, but instead of finding himself in the patch there he was out in the road again. He was the most surprised pig in the world. He wondered what was wrong. He tried again and again, but it was no use. The farmer laughed at him, and at last poor Mr. Piggy gave up trying to reach the nice new potatoes."

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

If you want to see the bad points of your boon companions just contemplate them an hour or so the morning after.

Seeing it is so hard to please oneself, there is no wonder that it is hard to please other people.

There are some people who take light exercise regularly three times a day—at the dining room table.

The amount of feathers and furbelows that the modern maid finds necessary to her happiness is enough to give Cupid nervous prostration.

The top must be a hoodoo or else why is there always room advertised there?

Kind words can never die, but a swift jolt does its work in fine fashion and takes its departure.

The judge is generally the person that referees the matrimonial squabble in the divorce court.

It may not be altogether the fault of the pancakes—maybe your temper and digestion are needing adjustment.

Judging from the sensational cases in court, the sooner letter writing becomes a lost art the better it will be for the general moral tone of society.

The Mystery.

O schoolmarm, in our early days we were taught like your ways! The schoolroom in our minds we hate. For we cannot appreciate The things for us you try to do

When life is young and years are few. But we confess before all men. Although we did not show it then, We thought you were the sweetest miss That ever mortal tried to kiss.

And we were quite determined, too, When we grew up to marry you.

But there are always things on ice To mar the plans of men and mice, And so it happened we were not Allowed to carry out the plot. But always in our secret heart There was the half forgotten smart

Because we missed that joy supreme To match with you and make a team. And how we envied some bright lad Who'd won your hand and made you glad!

Now from afar we come to chide A week or two about the place. To bring our kids and show our wife Where daddy got his start in life. And really our surprise is great To find you yet in single state.

It's more than we can understand How such a treasure failed to land And why you did not take your pick Of Tom or Archie, Bill or Nick.

O vain regret! 'Twas ever thus! Perhaps you waited round for us—Turned every other man away In hopes we would come back some day.

Suitable.

"He will make a good husband." "Do you think so?" "I know it."

"What are his qualifications?" "He can bake bread, sweep, dust, sew on buttons and is a master hand at darning silk hosiery."

Hard Lines.

"Domestic relations are somewhat strained in that family." "Are they?" "Seem to be."

"Wonder what strained them?" "The pull on the purse strings, I fancy."

Color Combination.

What happens when a green chap gets the blues?" "What happens?" "Yes."

"I don't know. What does?" "Turns him yellow, of course."

Lots of Them.

"How does it happen that Cecile makes such a success on the stage?" "Keeps the audience busy."

"Keeps them busy?" "Yes; regular commotional actress, you know."

The Microbe Carryall.

"Johnny, have you done anything useful today?" "Yes, papa; I killed a fly."

"Brave lad," said the advanced father; "there is a million dollar bill as a reward."

What Saved Him.

"He was going to mortgage his house to buy an auto."

"But he thought better of it, did he?" "Yes; he had nothing else to mortgage to keep it in repair."

Caustic.

"I am my own boss." "You are?" "Certainly am."

"I thought I noticed something lax about your training."

Playing Safe.

A man should always be on guard To watch his sin besetting.

And when he hasn't got a clinch He should cut out his betting.

"Why did Jonah leave the whale?" "Well, you see, he was 'in wrong.'"

QUEEN OF ACTRESSES PRAISES PE-RU-NA.

"I am glad to write my endorsement of the great remedy, Peru-na. I do so most heartily."—Julia Marlowe.

Any remedy that benefits digestion strengthens the nerves.

The nerve centers require nutrition. If the digestion is impaired, the nerve centers become anemic, and nervous debility is the result.

The Way They Read It.

The handwriting of Horace Greeley was something to inspire awe in the beholder. Mr. Greeley undoubtedly was the great master of legibility. It was to him the compositor averred that if Belshazzar had seen his handwriting on the wall he would have had cause to be terrified.

In response to an invitation to attend a gathering of newspaper men on one occasion Mr. Greeley wrote: "With a weight of years, I feel obliged to decline any invitation that takes me a day's journey from home," and this is all they could make of it: "If eels are blighted, dig them early. Any insinuation that brick ovens are dangerous to hams gives me horrors."

English Humor.

At a recent dinner of the Authors' club in London Walter Emanuel, member of the staff of Punch, referred to the fact that the man with the largest sense of humor he had ever struck was an Englishman. A dentist. He went to him after suffering long with a toothache. He refused to have gas, and the dentist pulled out a tooth, leaving him writhing in pain, and took the tooth to the window, where he laughed quite heartily.

The victim groaned, "What's the joke?"

"Wrong tooth," said the dentist.

Natural Deduction.

"Poor Speeder is in hard luck. He has one arm in a sling, a black eye, two teeth missing and a mortgage on his home."

"You don't say! How long has he had the auto?"

A Witty Retort.

They were hickitying him at a political meeting. At last he could stand it no longer.

"Who brayed there?" he cried out sarcastically.

"It was only an echo," retorted somebody.—London Tit-Bits.

Their Way.

Cigar—Say, you're a nervous sort of fellow. Dice—Yes; we get rattled a good deal.

Expensive.

"I want some cloth to make my dolly a dress," announced a little girl of seven as she entered a store the other day.

"How much is it?" she asked when the merchant handed her the package.

"Just one kiss," was the reply.

"All right," she said. "Grandma said she would pay you when she came in tomorrow."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Story of the Two Coins

ONE day Jack's teacher had been telling the class about the mint in Philadelphia, where the money is made, and Jack had been greatly interested. That evening he asked daddy to tell him and Evelyn a story about money.

"Once upon a time," said daddy, "there were two coins lying side by side in a mint. They were both bright and new and shiny, but one was only a copper penny, and the other was a gold piece worth many times as much as the penny."

"Get away from me," said the proud gold piece to the penny. "You are only copper and worth very little. You will soon lose all your luster and become dull, while I shall remain bright and shiny and shall do great work in the world."

The poor copper penny could not answer for awhile, but at last he said, "Well, perhaps I shall be able to do some good in the world, even if I am not worth much. Sometimes even a little piece of money, if it is used in the right manner, can do good. Perhaps it will be my good fortune to make some one happy, even if I am only a copper piece and worth not nearly as much as you, Neighbor Gold Piece."

"After a time the two pieces of money were sent out into the world. The gold piece fell into the hands of a miser, who hid him in a money chest with many others of the same kind. Then a little later the miser thought he was going to die, so he took the chest
